

BIOLOGICAL DECONTAMINATION SERVICES

Biological decontamination is a constant and critical process that requires technical expertise and careful execution. It is more than merely wiping down surfaces; decontaminating sensitive biological spaces and instruments involves thorough disinfection and equipment-specific cleaning methods.

Triumvirate Environmental's decontamination experts and certified industrial hygienists have decades of experience working with specialized biological environments, including tissue culture rooms, vivariums, and BSL 1, 2, and 3 areas. We partner with our clients to understand, manage, and remove contamination in laboratories. With effective, thorough decontamination methods and high attention to detail, we return the lab to normal operations quickly, with confidence that the problem has been eliminated.

Decontamination Services

Our experienced team provides a wide range of services to support your site-specific needs. Areas of expertise include:

- Decontamination testing and certification protocols for various spaces:
  - Labs
  - Incubators and shaker tables
  - Cold rooms and refrigerators
  - Fume hoods
  - Biological safety cabinets
  - Animal care facilities
- Biological contamination investigations
- Mycoplasma decontamination
- Vivarium decontamination
- Sampling and lab analysis
- Biosafety program support
  - Work process audits and assessments
  - Disinfection program development
  - Biosafety committee support and permitting
- Mold remediation

Preventive Maintenance

Preventive measures can reduce research downtime and maintain the integrity of cell cultures and specimens. Our experts provide periodic testing and preventive cleaning to keep your lab space and work environment safe, compliant, and healthy. We can proactively work with your lab personnel to develop an appropriate and thoughtful program to avoid unexpected contamination and associated costs and disruption.

Maintaining a clean environment and eliminating contamination are critical to laboratory research. Triumvirate Environmental's experts investigate, analyze, and thoroughly decontaminate sensitive biological areas to ensure safe, healthy, and productive work conditions.

